National C-FAR – May 2003 Update

Note from Secretary/Treasurer: This electronic newsletter has the agenda and registration form for the upcoming May 20th annual meeting. Please register and plan to attend this meeting which is pivotal to the future of National C-FAR.

Please register and attend our National C-FAR 3rd Annual Meeting at the Washington Terrace Hotel, 1515 Rhode Island Ave., NW, Washington, DC from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm, May 20, 2003. The Board meeting will immediately follow the annual meeting. The preliminary agendas for the annual meeting and board meeting are listed below.

Member participation at this year’s annual meeting is especially important to the future of National C-FAR and to achieving the goal of increasing funding of food and agricultural research. Much of the initial enthusiasm and support for National C-FAR seems to have slipped. Strong leadership and member commitment will be necessary to regain the momentum. New members of the board will be elected and the board will be selecting new officers. Terry Wolf, who has served as president, and Joe Coffey, who has served as Secretary/Treasurer, will be retiring from National C-FAR this year and not running for re-election. The board will be reviewing the candidates for the Washington Representative. To date, four candidates have submitted their applications in response to our announcement.

DITTUS proposal: A major initiative recommended by DITTUS Communications, following several months of consideration, will be reviewed by David Graves and DITTUS. DITTUS proposes that National C-FAR launch a two + year public awareness campaign to focus greater attention on “why” we need greater funding to food and agricultural research. The proposal is to host a series of high-level “mini summits” in high visibility venues in Washington, DC. The mini summits would engage a panel of 8 to 15 visionaries, leading policymakers, researchers/authors, CEOs, and consumer advocates in provocative roundtable discussions. A seasoned moderator would be enlisted to guide the summit participants in the debate discussion. A white paper would be released at a national press event to enable participants to comment publicly on the topic discussion and conclusions to garnering media coverage and public support. National C-FAR would work with a publishing company or designated journalist to produce a special television broadcast examining one of the core issues as a result of the mini summits.

For Phase Two, Dittus proposes an event to be held on the Washington mall based on the most compelling issues/challenges ahead as a result of our 2003 mini summits. This mall event would provide a hands-on demonstration for the need and demand for greater public awareness and attention by key influencers and policymakers. This event would challenge participants to “take a walk on the mall” through a series of mazes or channels that would demonstrate how today’s priorities and funding choices (or lack thereof) will impact tomorrow’s future both nationally and globally. While we want to create a buzz about the issue to grab the media’s and public’s attention, we also want the event to be compelling and engaging for people from all walks of life.

Board Elections: All National Members are strongly encouraged to nominate a member to the board. The Board of Director nominee must be a current representative for a National Member. Elections are by written ballot at the Annual Meeting and eligible nominees from the floor will be received. Board members whose terms expire at this meeting, based upon a random selection to provide for one-third of the board to be elected each year, include Susan T. Borra, American Dietetic Association; Marc S. Curtis, American Soybean Association; David Graves, National Council of Farmer Cooperatives; Rollin D. Sparrowe, Wildlife Management Institute; and Bob Stallman, American Farm Bureau Federation. Board members can serve two consecutive three year terms. Hence, those rotating off the board this year are eligible for renomination.
